PLEURISY CURED.

E. E. Dudley, Kingston, Ontario, says: Six years ago I cangut a severe cold standing in an ice house with my coat off. I telt myself getting chilly and went to the house, where I shook for half an hour and then had a high feber and a terrible pain in my side and through my lungs. I put an Allcock's Porous Plaster on my back and on the front of my chest, and in a short time the pain decreased and I fell asleep, and did not wake until the next morning, when I was again quite as well as ever. In telling my doctor about it he said I had been attacked with pleurisy and, in possibly, pneumonia. CAPT, WOODSON ON THE SITUATION. Captain Woodson, of the Fifth cavalry, stationed anywhere in boomer land, arrived yesterday. The captain is in good spirits, although he will very soon loose his job looking for skittish and at ting persistent boomers. same short conversation yester-stated that the troops were at last able to persuade most of the boomers out of Oklahoma. In answer to the question if the opening proclamation did not have more to do in getting the boomers out of that country than the soldiers he seemed little disposed to depreciate in any manner the ability do such to work and seemed to think that most of the credit, if not all of it, due to the vigilant work of the troops. yesterday at Justice Hammond's and the defendant discharged of the second charge against him.

Will Angell, the youth who was said to have stolen a wagon wheel from an East Oak blacksmith shop, was also discharged. A good looking and intelligent young colored girl was yesterday brought before Justice Hammond charged with stealing some jewelry and table ware. From the statement made it appears that the goods ..... in question were stored by Mrs. Leach in a stable belonging to Mr. Levins, No. 706 North Lawrence. The trunk containing them was broken open, and the defendant, a servant girl, was suspected of the theft. Superintendent McMahan, in whose hands the matter had been placed. arrested the girl, and searching her trunk found there concealed a part of the goods. She gave bond and had her

FOR RURAL READERS.

A goop crop of both corn and weeds can not be grown on the same ground at the same time, rightly says an exchange. Every farmer should keep bees to take care of the honey secreted in the millions of flowers blooming in his orchard, meadow, glade and glen.

One rod of fence on a farm beyond real need is a tax wholly unnecessary, but multiplied by a hundred, or a thousand, it becomes burdensome, or even rulnous. The young farmer who thinks he can carouse safely about half the night after working a full day in the field, and take no harm from it, will not be a young man long. Eggs should be put away, as soon as they are gathered in hot weather, in a cool, dry place. They will keep much better than if left in a warm apartment for even a short

Is a part of the hen-yard is spaded up and a few handfuls of oats sprinkled on the freshly-spaded ground, it will make good scratching for the fowls, besides furnishing them a bite of green food from the sprouting grain.

A successful fruit-grower attributes his success with plums to thorough culture, and having his trees in a hen-yard. The thorough culture keeps the trees thrifty, and the hens take care of the curculio.

FARMING can not be learned alone from books and newspapers. It is necessary to take hold of the farm implements with both hands, that a practical knowledge be attained, and then it will require years to learn it thoroughly, with a good assurance

A BRIEF description of a Kansas man's chinch-bug fence may prove of interest to farmers who fear damage by the pest. He takes a strip of flooring and sets it in the ground with the groove up. In the groove he puts candle wicking and saturates it with coal oil. The chinch bug crawls off in disgust when he climbs on this side and gets a sniff at it.

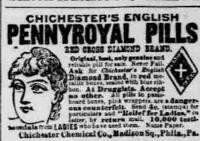

Ir is important when corn is small, says the American Cultivator, to draw the earth away from rather than towards the plant. The fair presumption is, if the seed has been dropped in a deep check made by a marker, that the roots are deep enough. Corn loves warmth, and too much soil over them keeps the roots too cold.

An orchard that is at the same time the poultry-yard, will produce one hundred per cent, more fruit, of better quality, than one receiving the ordinary culture of the average farmer. The constant scratching about the roots, the gobbling up of all the insects, the constant droppings which the rains make soluble, and the continual supply, is marked by a dark green verdure and a large, fair fruit; the large runs make the fowls healthier and the egg product greater.

A NEXT and attractive lamp shade is made thus: Take a piece of light pink satin, the size desired, and baste on it, a short distance from the top, some white Oriental lace. Work the heavy figures in the lace over and over in old-style embroidery stitch with various colored silks. Cut the satin at the bottom to match the scallops of the lace, and turn under and hem neatly, Run a hem at the top for a drawing string to make it fit the shade. Pasten around the bottom tiny silk tassels the color of silks used. Have the lace deep enough to come just below the bottom of the shade

Never Since Adam Ate the Apple,

Has Clothing been Sold so Low.

Times are changed and we are changed with them. Complete and overwhelming success of our Spring Opening. Crowds of buyers attest the fact. Honest effort must receive public encouragement and we have acquired strength in our progress. Owing to our long experience in the business we necessarily have advantages over other buyers which enable us to sell many articles of clothing for less money than some dealers buy them for, and we desire to say right here, that during our whole business experience we have never bought goods so low as this spring stock, and we are going to give our patrons the benefit of it. Suits which have heretofore sold readily for Twenty Dollars we are now selling for Fifteen Dollars. Boys and Childrens Suits formerly sold for Eight Dollars we are now selling for Six Dollars. Look at our Ten Dollar Suits which others are making a great hue and cry over at 12 and $14. Impossible to enumerate all the great bargains. The advantages presented to buyers are legion, and can scarcely be summed up. A stupendous stock to select from and no arguments over two prices
